A platform for recognizing the contributions of Black artists, creators, and cultural leaders, this year’s BFAM celebration offered an immersive experience in the visual arts. From gallery exhibitions to mural tours and curated discussions, Black Fine Art Month aims to connect, inspire, and educate through the lens of Black fine art. As since its inception, the DuSable Black Museum and Education Center is a founding partner.

BFAM was launched in October 2019 and was entered into the Congressional Record that year by Congresswoman Robin Kelly. It was also recognized by the State of Illinois, Cook County President Toni Preckwinkle, the State of Illinois, then Commissioner, now Mayor, Branden Johnson, and former Mayor Lori Lightfoot. Since then, the celebration has been adopted in Houston, Texas and last year was concretized by Mayor Richard Irvine in Aurora, IL.
